

Dear Partner in Research:

I am delighted to share with you that we have established a new, non-profit organization committed to accelerating people-driven research. The new People-Centered Research Foundation \(PCRF\) has been created to sustain and expand a national network for clinical research that originated with funding from the Patient-Centered Outcomes Research Institute (PCORI) and studies conducted by The National Patient-Centered Clinical Research Network (PCORnet).

As you may be aware, PCORnet was launched with substantial financial investment from PCORI. When PCORI approved the second phase of PCORnet investments, its Board of Governors stipulated that PCORnet partner networks develop a plan for long-term sustainability. Over the past several years, PCORnet has led the way to transform the culture of clinical research by creating a system driven by the shared needs of patients and people and those who care for them. We are ensuring PCORnet's vision and unprecedented work continue.

PCRF can respond more effectively and efficiently to the research needs of a variety of research funders and sponsors. PCRF will integrate people into all phases of research and the learning health system. Patients, participants, patient advocates, and caregivers will constitute a meaningful percentage of our board; be involved in leadership roles in all committees; and participate in the development and execution of the research. PCRF will partner with all stakeholders in the clinical research enterprise to prioritize, design and conduct research, including patients, clinicians, health system leaders, representatives from the life sciences industry, patient advocacy groups, clinician professional organizations, and the government.

Today, PCRF has a robust business plan in place, with seven members of what could grow to be a 13-member board, and plans to build a program management office that will be led by an executive director. I am pleased to be able to serve as Chair of the Board, and I welcome our other board members who have joined the PCRF at the time of its incorporation. They are:

- Richard Bankowitz, MD, MBA, FACP as Executive Vice President, Clinical Affairs, America's Health Insurance Plans (AHIP)
- Josephine P. Briggs, MD, Director, National Center for Complementary and Integrative Health (NCCIH)
- Marc M. Boutin, JD, Chief Executive Officer, National Health Council (NHC)
- Donna Cryer, President & CEO of the Global Liver Institute

People-Centered
RESEARCH FOUNDATION

- Craig Lipset, MBA, Head of Clinical Innovation, Worldwide Research & Development, Pfizer Inc.
- Joanne Waldstreicher, MD, Chief Medical Officer, Johnson & Johnson

There are many details in place for the new PCRf—and many more to be determined. I am eager to share with you the particulars of our business model and look forward to updating you on our progress in the coming days.

Sincerely,

Dr. Robert Califf
Chair, Board of Directors
